NOTICE,

THE "DAILY PRESS" will in future be ssued at 6.30 A.M. The arrangement l been made to meet the views of numerous Subscribers, and it may be desirable to state that the step would have been adopted earlier, but that it was considered advisable to publish at such an hour as would give time for reporting the latest arrivals and departures. This end, will, however, be met by the issue of an extra slip at I p.m., with the arrivals in the course of the morning.

Advertisaments can be received up to 10 P.M. and those sent in the morning can, when desired, be inserted for the first time in the Ship. ping Extra. Hongkong, 24th January, 1873.

Hong cong, February Ist. 18:3.

WHETHER the principle of divide et impera has been definitely adopted as a motto for tying him up in a small room in his shop, the guidance of our Police Force, we cannot say, but that the principle of division carried to extreme has long ben the subject away f complaint, though we suspect that the powers of governing the Force are very much weakened instead of strengthened by the poculiar tactics which are adopted. We not long ago drew attention to this subject in defendant refused to allow complainant to go alluding to the appointment of Mr. Wone. House to have special control over the Chinese Contingent, and we now hear that Mr. fondant was apprehended, and complainant re- us it CREAGH will shortly return to the sphere of his duties (and leaves of absence) with twenty-five extra men, and that it is intended to make him special Superintendent over the Sikh Force. We have thus three distinct divisions; but the principle does not end here, as there is to be a further division among the European portion of the Force It will be recollected that the recent Police Commission recommended an increase in the pay of the Europeans, and we hear that the to the Central Station and was sent down to the Dine and needles of her mouth, till at fast sue results are in consequence unfavourable to the manner in which this is to be carried out is defendant's shop; on arriving there, he found that Captain Drane has applied to have the pay of eleven Inspectors, immediately under answer that the defendant would not be his own control, increased, thus giving them a status over the rest of the Force in addition to the increase in money. The 380, and $60 respectively, and this request money, it being a loan to him several years ago Ambassadors should wear very broad-brimmed, the part of holders was so strong, and so aphas, we believe, been granted. It happens, however, that there are six other Inspectors, fish to him. The complainant from that day garments should be long and flowing, and sud thus forced the rate down until, on or not immediately under Captain DEANE, some to this never returned, and seeing him on the preferably made of figured wilks. Each Ambeing partly under his control, and partly under that of the Colonial-Surgeon and the bim up, nor detained him. Registrar-General. In order not to interfere with the above officials' prerogatives, Captain Deate left it to them to recommend an increase for these Inspectors, and, as the above officials did not see fit to move, for fear of invading Mr. DEANE's prerogatives, the unlucky Inspectors in question fall between two stools, and lose their pay, because the Hongkong officials cannot settle a point of a witness to the transaction. He saw complain- aupported by coolies. They did not grovel on otiquette. to arrange either the internal organisation or warrant was ordered to be issued for his apthe effective working of the Police so long as the controlling power is not more centralized It is a common complaint that criminals are very apt to escape between two branches of the Service. The Europeans under Mr. DEANE may be adopting one set of tactics, and the Chinese under their Special Superintendent may be taking a line just such as will defeat the other measure; and anything like prompt and ready action must become utterly impossible. It is very difficult to see what advantage is gained, or supposed to be gained, by giving no less than three officials individual authority in so small a force. There is nothing that either Mr. Wodenouse or Mr. CREAGE can do for the benefit of Police matters, which could not be as well accomplished by those gentlemen simply in the position of subordinates to Mr. DEANE and if they must have titles, they might be called the First and Second "Lieutenants. Superintendent," which would have the effect. of preserving the semi-military element, and of leaving the general command of the force, as it should be, entirely in the hands of the "Captain." It is to be borne in mind that there is a vast difference between an Head of the Force, and being placed in command of a special detachment; and this is the whole of the change which we have long advocated in this direction. There must, no doubt, especially in a place like Hongkong, be more than one superior officer to the Force can attend to, but it is not necessary to place the second officers in positions where they exercise any independent authority likely to clash with a complete control over the force as a whole. To some extent we are free to admit this is always liable to be the case, but it should be the constant endeavour to reduce it to a minimum; whereas, under existing arrangements, it is scarcely going beyond the facts to state that almost every opportunity seems to be seized of increasing the subdivision of the Force, without at-

of control. A tolegram has been received stating that the P. and O. steamship Australia, with the next English mail, was to leave Singapore at

If Mr G schen continues to hold his presen office for another year, he will be "brimful" of naval patronage. He will have to give away the Sheerness, the Mediterranean, the West-India, und Australian commands. He will bave to appoint a new commodore at Hongkong. He will have to bestow the principal and several other naval aide-de-campships on those who by merit and long service deserve such high distinctions. He will have to find captains for the Achilles, Audocious and Hector, countguard ships; also for the Indus, guardship of Reservo at Developert, and for the Terror at Berminda, These are independent of the captains he will have to choose for fresh ships to be commissioned, and for vacancies which may fall in. We have not alluded to the good-service pensions, as the very mention of them is a secore point to the service. The Board of Trade, with the sunction of the Lords of the Admirulty, have lately carried out a series of most intereating experiments at Greenwich, in order to ascertain the burning and other qualities of pertain musticul and broadeide lanterns. We have beard that one, which was kept swinging about aloft during some of the heavy breezes to which we have been no strangers of late, burnt brightly for 19 hours, without being trimmed or otherwise attended to. We wonder if this lantern would swing successfully over a dinner table? If so, householders would be more indifferent to the strike of gasmen than they are at present. By advices from China we learn that Vice-Admiral Shadwell was in the Salamis nt Tientain on the 4th of October, He had left Nagasaki on the 3rd of September with the Iron Duke and Salamie i arrived at Chofoc on the 8th of September; shifted his flag to the Sulamis on the 11th of September, and reached Tientain on the 13th of September. The Admiral started on the 17th of September for Pekin, and arrived there on the 20th; he returned to the Salamis on the 3rd of October. He intended to leave on the 5th of October for. Newchwang, and thence go to Nagasaki, where a few ships were to assemble for court-martial purposes. The Admiral will then cross to

Shanghai and visit the ports on the Yangtaze Army and Navy Gazette. SOUTHERN ITALY. der date. November 16th: -" After a week of in the Western country. This advice Rose, and Co., Bartholomew-house, Barmay be useful to many who are now suffering tholomew-lane, London, have, we understand, in England; but though my own experience consented to receive contributions from English his captivity, says the report, he was treated with deference. At first he was well fed, but as the surveillance became more strict, it was difficult to find provisions, and on some days he was compelled to be satisfied with obestants. They never remained in one place more than one day; there was a continual movements over the mountains of Salerno and Aveiling. Manzi never abandoned him. Sometimes he was led, by long and winding underground passages, into large and dark cavernewhere he was left alone for many hours. Signor Manausi believes, however, that the outlets were guarded. The entrances to these caverns were from almost impenetrable woods, and by precipiess, when appeared inaccessible. Manzi, however, had obtained all he asked, for before releasing his captive, that is to say, 65,000 ducats, or about £10,000. Out of this he gave Signor Manousi 400 lire for expenses. of journey. The brigand, therefore, in the late struggle between his band and all the available force which could be brought against him, has come off triumphent, and now retires no one knows whither, but where the authorities will have greater difficulty than ever in taking him. Why General Pallavicino, who is at Salerno, and who has already gained a great reputationin the suppression of brigandage, should not have been employed now is a mystery to every one. To people at a distance it would appear as if there were much ado about nothing. when the acknowledged brigands of a district might be counted on the fingers; but it is not their notual number so much as the facility with which recruits are found among a wretchedly poor people that awakens apprehension. Manzi has kept a whole province for months in fear. In like manner the comparatively few declared brigands who range through the Calabrias do the same, and flying squardrone of: rifles and Carbineers are now forming in those Provinces to hunt out the vermin, but the general state of want multiplies them. A correspondent of the Roma says that in Basilicats, within the memory of man, never was such a bad vintage as that of 1872 known, Hundreds of families are leaving weekly for Americanot more than 2 per cent, can read or write, and their food is of the coursest kind, Meat is ulmost unknown in many villages, where, perhaps, a couple of goats a week are killed to supply the tables of the landed proprietors and the priests. It was only last week that 700 peasants of Calabria and Basilicata left this port for South America, and the exodus is continual, showing that no representations of the sufferings of these people can be too strong. It must be obvious to every one that brigandage and poverty are closely related, and whatever force may be employed, the former will not be conquered until fresh sources of industry and commerce are opened up. The trial of the cause in which our countryman is engaged has not yet come off. There was a report that a disposition existed to suspend all further proceedings against Mr M ; but matters have gone too fur for that. Were this, however, the case, he himself would not let it rest. As he is resolved on prosecuting the parties who, as he says, have so grossly injured him. I neither could nor did strike, nor did I threaten to strike a blow, he saserts. 'I of course tried to struggle out of the grasp of the hands of the functionaries. The statement which sent you from the authorities of Castellamare is of course only a repetition of the proces-verbal of the Carbineers who arested Mr.

on a future occasion some revelations must be

RELIGIOUS DENOMINATIONS IN NEW At a private meeting held at the National Club, Mr. James Batomany F.R.S., in the chair, the Rev. E. Cowley, of New York, made the following statement in regard to the religious state of New York, ospecially in reference to the orphan and destitute children of English parents :- " According to the last official report there were some 250,000, in a population of NEW YORK.... 800,000, who are British born, in New York. Of these 250,000, some 60,000, are Protestants, and the Protestants of the city are, it is supposed. only slightly in the majority—say about four-sevenths of the whole—while the foreign-born population, including Germana and other Europeans, is nearly equal to that of the native-born. By the manipulations of politicians, the foreign has become the governing and controlling element in that oity. The election just held shows that the candidate for the foreign. and opposition party for the Presidency got a majority of 23,000 votes. During the taking of the last Geneue the United States officials went to the Vicar-General of the Roman Church, asking for a report or schedule of the property owned by his Church in the city. This had been readily furnished by the other denominations, but the Vicar General could not be induced to accord it. He would neither give a list of items nor an aggregated estimate of the value of Church property. So, to save time and prevent any legal entanglement, the United States authorities appointed an officer who should make particular inquiry as to all property owned by the Roman Church in the city, and appraise its value. The report afterwards rendered showed that, while the denomination was, in its membership, among the poorest, yet it had succeeded in accumulating about $60,000,000 worth of real and personal estate, or considerably more than any religious body. This was a surprising fact. The property could not have been acquired in the nedal way of gifts and bequests; but had been obtained, very largely, by grants from the State and the city Governments. Thus, although in theory there is no State Church, wit, practically, by the votes and influence of the foreign population, the Roman Catholica get the lious share (say about mine-tenthe) of all donations to charitable institutions, whether made by the State Legislature or by grants of land from the city. Hence the vast property they have seoured both within and beyond the city's limits. This has been obtained, for the most part, under cover of support of orphunages, reformaturies, schools, &c., yet, notwithstanding these agencies. three-fourths of all the oriminals, paupers, and vagrants in New York are Romanists. By the admission of their own priests three-quarters of all the inmates of penal and charitable institutions at Bluckwel's Island are Roman Catholics. And the priests demand the right of officiating in the several chapels upon the sland and administering the sacramenta to the vagrant and orinimal classes. Further, three-fourths of all the poor, the sick and the criminal, coming under the public charge. are also foreign-born; while nine-tenths of the taxes for their support are paid by Protestants. The entire cost of pauperism and orime to the city and private institutions is about £500,000 year. Yet, after this sum is expended, there are 70,000 children and youth adrift in thecity; who are destitute of a home and of all Christian influences. Many of them, by birth and by beptism, are Protestants, but without the least prospect of a Protestant education. They re main in the darkness of ignorance and moral depravity, because the Protestants of New Tork have their hands more than full in city The Times' Naples Correspondent writes un- missions, and in founding schools and churches
